

Born in Lawton, Oklahoma, Joyce Cannon Yi grew up in and around the Carnegie - Zoltone areas in So West Oklahoma. She attended various schools in the Anadarko area, including St. Patrick's Mission, before graduating from Gracemont High School.

Upon graduating from high school in Oklahoma, and feeling that there was a lot to see and do in this world, she moved to San Francisco, Calif. where she lived and worked for 10 years primarily in the business field as an underwriter and computer operator.

Although she loved San Francisco and still considers it her favorite city, she transferred to So. Calif. through her job, only intending to stay for one year and move back to San Francisco. But fate had other plans and she met the man who was to become her husband and ended up staying permanently.

She and her husband owned a business for awhile, but sold it and both went to work for Boeing.

Upon the death of her father Walter Cannon, she took over as executor of the T.C. Cannon estate.

She now lives in Southern Calif. with her husband Lee, and works full time on the Cannon estate.
